Did You Know Pets Control Blood Pressure Better Than Drugs?

While drugs can generally reduce blood pressure, they aren't as effective on controlling spikes due to stress and tension. In fact, a study showed groups of New York stockbrokers with high blood pressure who got dogs and cats were found to lower their blood pressure and heart rates more than those who didn't get pets. Owning a pet has also been correlated to lower blood cholesterol and triglyceride levels. Many people in regular contact with pets are able to stop taking anti-anxiety medication. Research also indicates regular contact between pets and people with sundowning syndrome has helped decrease anxiety and increase a feeling of calmness.

Did You Know Pets Improve Your Mood and Fight Depression?

For those who love animals, it's virtually impossible to stay in a bad mood when a pair of loving puppy eyes meets yours, or when a super soft cat rubs up against your hand. A recent study found that people with an illness were less likely to suffer from depression if they owned a pet. In fact people with an illness who do not own a pet are 3 times more likely to be depressed. Pets give people a clear sense of purpose and help them not to dwell on their problems as much. Also pets help us stick to regular routines of getting up and going outside and feeding which in turn motivates people to stay on a schedule and live healthier lives. Pets allow people to play and express themselves and a smile a day can help keep depression and the doctors away. As a vet, I have often heard from senior clients, "My pets are the reason I get up in the mornings. "

Did You Know Pets Stave Off Loneliness and Provide Unconditional Love?

Pets can be there for you in ways that people cannot. They can offer love and companionship regardless of how old or young, rich or poor, healthy or sick you are. Pets enjoy comfortable silences, keep secrets and are excellent snugglers. They can be one of the best antidote's to loneliness after the loss of a spouse or when just living alone. In fact a 1990 research study showed nursing home residents reported less loneliness when visited by dogs than when they spent time with other people! Pets also provide safety and a sense of security to people when living alone.

Did You Know Pets Help with Social Support and Communication Skills?

To raise money this year I am donating ALL the money from ALL toenail trims done at the clinic ($10) from September 1st to October 14th, 2022. So please come by and get your pets' nails trimmed and help raise money for Alzheimer's Association!

We invite you to join us in our walk at Noble Park on October 15th, 2022 at 9am!

Remember- September is Spay & Neuter Month at Flanary Vet Clinic. All spays & neuters are 10% off!! Please schedule quickly because the quantity we can do is limited and we will book up quickly!

We also have some exciting changes to our boarding policies that I think you will love. Now included in your pet's boarding stay is one round of play or snuggle time a day as well as a complimentary picture sent to you during their stay. These options were utilized and loved so much by our clients & patients, I decided to make it part of their normal stay with us! We will of course still offer additional services you can add during their stay such as Treat Time with our Pupmuffin or Claudia Canine Cookies, a Spa Day packages, and even other veterinary services such as dental cleanings. On that note, I would also like to say that we here at FVC understand what is happening with the economy and that money is tight for everyone right now. We also understand how much your pet means to you and that you want to take the BEST care of your furry family member(s). We strive here to keep our services affordable and to always work with people's budgets; you just have to tell us what that is. We can usually make a treatment plan that can be split into multiple visits, breaking the overall cost down for you over time. We also made it possible for payment plans through CareCredit for those big or even unexpected veterinary expenses. We want your pet to be happy & healthy and get the care they deserve, without causing financial distress. Please take a moment and fill out our client survey and help us better serve you.

Thank you!
